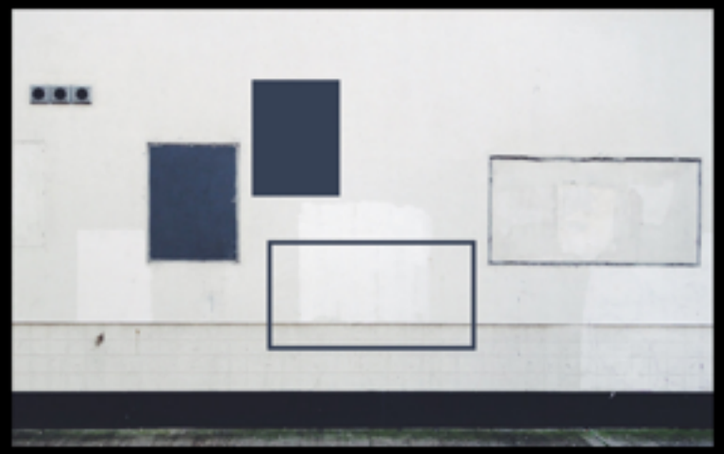
Boyce

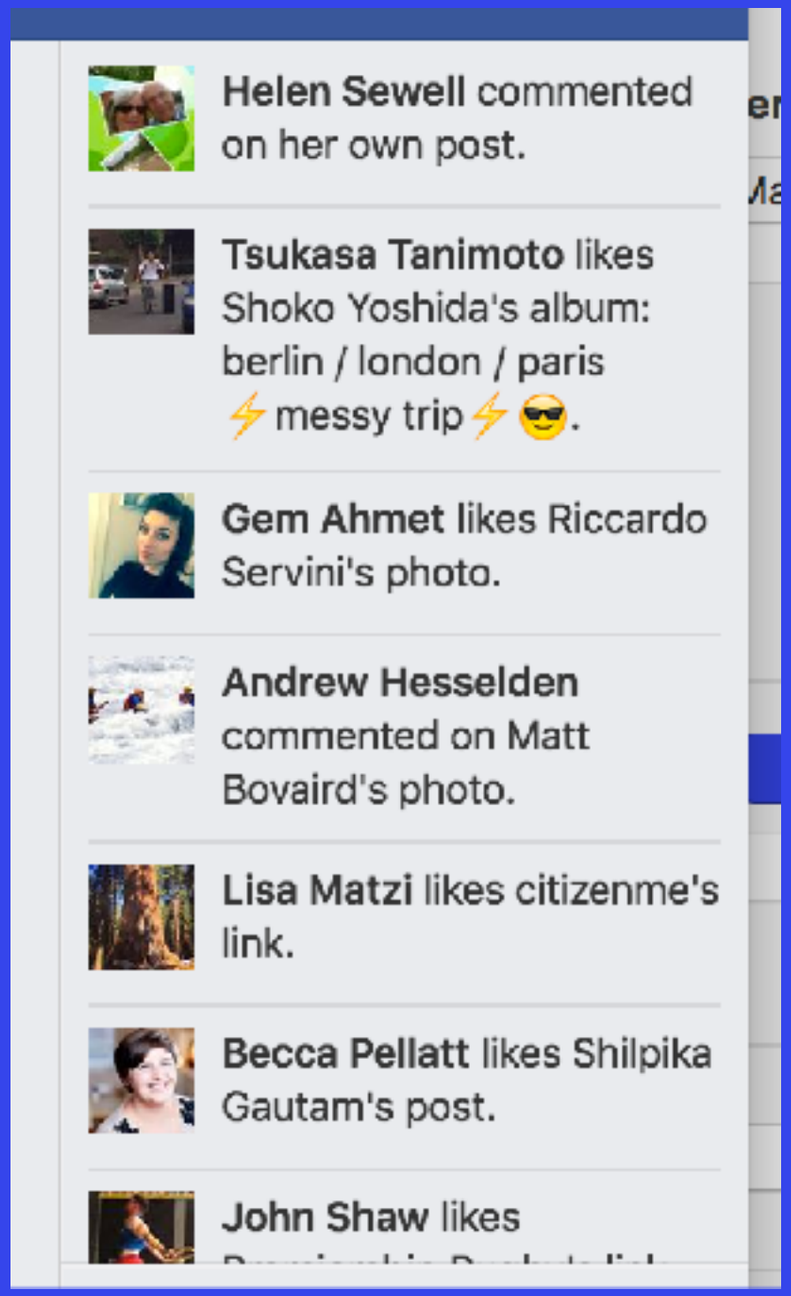
Grid List Info



Copyright 2016

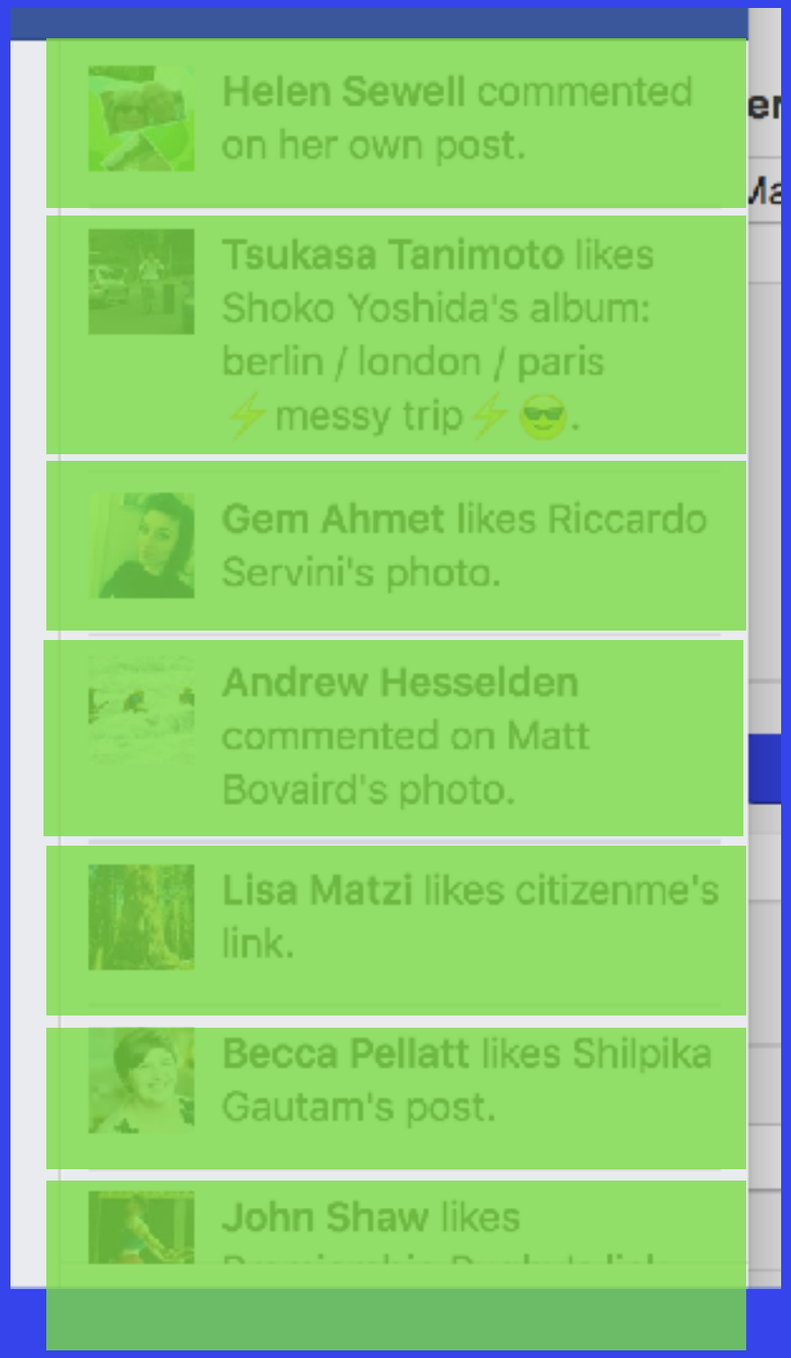
CSS Display

Block



Helen Sewell commented on her own post.
Tsukasa Tanimoto likes Shoko Yoshida's album: berlin / london / paris ⚡messy trip⚡😎.
Gem Ahmet likes Riccardo Servini's photo.
Andrew Hesselden commented on Matt Bovaird's photo.
Lisa Matzi likes citizenme's link.
Becca Pellatt likes Shilpika Gautam's post.
John Shaw likes

Block



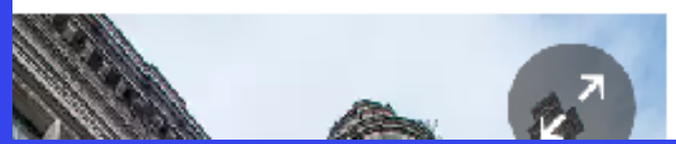
Helen Sewell commented on her own post.
Tsukasa Tanimoto likes Shoko Yoshida's album: berlin / london / paris ⚡messy trip⚡😎.
Gem Ahmet likes Riccardo Servini's photo.
Andrew Hesselden commented on Matt Bovaird's photo.
Lisa Matzi likes citizenme's link.
Becca Pellatt likes Shilpika Gautam's post.
John Shaw likes

Inline

level street, the Cowgate.

Campaigners see the plans - which include no additional housing or community spaces - as further proof of the over-development and gentrification of this part of the city, already bristling with bars, restaurants, clubs and hotels, which make up a Unesco world heritage site.

The £65m development proposal includes the historic cluster known as India Buildings, which stretch around the corner of quaint Victoria Street, across from the Grassmarket. Developer Jansons Property argues the scheme will help attract millions of pounds in visitor spending and bring new jobs to the area. It will also bring the A-listed India Buildings themselves back into use for the first time in 10 years, as well as two other listed buildings. "There are many positive aspects to this project," says Colin Smith, director of Turley, who acted as planning consultants on the project.



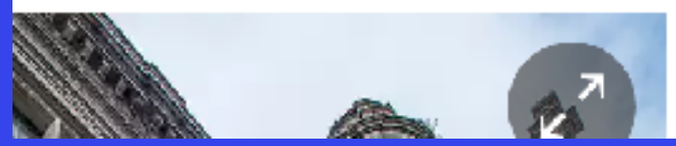
But for locals it will mean the loss of land that was originally bequeathed to the city as space for a possible extension of

Inline

level street, the Cowgate.

Campaigners see the plans - which include no additional housing or community spaces - as further proof of the over-development and gentrification of this part of the city, already bristling with bars, restaurants, clubs and hotels, which make up a Unesco world heritage site.

The £65m development proposal includes the historic cluster known as India Buildings, which stretch around the corner of quaint Victoria Street, across from the Grassmarket. Developer Jansons Property argues the scheme will help attract millions of pounds in visitor spending and bring new jobs to the area. It will also bring the A-listed India Buildings themselves back into use for the first time in 10 years, as well as two other listed buildings. "There are many positive aspects to this project," says Colin Smith, director of Turley, who acted as planning consultants on the project.



But for locals it will mean the loss of land that was originally bequeathed to the city as space for a possible extension of

Inline to block

Inline:

Can’t do heights
Can’t do widths
Not great at padding

Blocks:

We can float but only align to top

Can’t float in the middle, only left or right

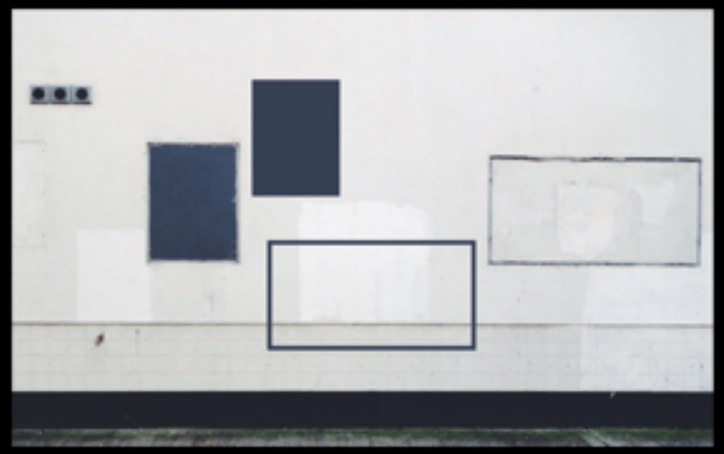
So, some nerd invented...

display: inline-block;

inline-block

Can align in rows how ever we like
Can have control over widths and heights

Grid List Info



Copyright 2016

Copyright 2016

What’s in a yellow box

Grid List Info

Fill Outline

Title of image appears on hover

Image

CSS Positions

position: fixed;

move the tag to a position based on the browser position: relative;

move the tag relative to where it would usually be

position: absolute;

move the tag to a position
based on the page itself (not sticky)...

position: absolute;

...or based on a parent tag's relative or absolute position